Another little singer who made a distinct hit was Miss Lillian Swain, the Pitti-Sing of the evening. The audience could scarcely hear enough times her declaration to Katisha that "He's going to marry Yum Yum." Mark Smith was a comically dignified Pooh-Bah; Edwin Stevens a gigantic Mikado; Joseph Herbert, a very, very funny Ko-Ko; Miss Drew Donaldson an effective Katisha, and A. S. Kingsley, though handicapped by a bad cold, an acceptable Nanki-roo. The chorus was large and well trained, the stage settings and costumes were elaborate, and the performance constituted an altogether grateful revival of one of the best works of the men who also gave us "Pinafore," "Patience," et al.

On hot nights the crowds which usually occcupy the spaces reserved for "standees" at the Casino flock to the buffet floor or the roof garden, and enjoy the entertainment there. When the night is cool they keep away from the roof garden and occupy the foyers and promsenades. But the crowds of well-dressed people who go to the Casino to see that wonderfully successful production, "The Passing Show," are as large as the building will hold, and the outlook for a long and prosperous run is gratifying.

Bidney Worth, who played Jessica in Richard Manefield's production of the "Merchant of Venice," is in a state of mind because Sidney Worth is doing stongs, dances, high kicking, splits and other extraordinary things at Proctor's this week. Mr. Proctor's Sidney Worth says it's her own name, and she guesses ahe can use it if she wants to, all the tragediennes in America to the contrary notwithstanding. The weather is too hot for personal discussions or law-suits, and the young ladies have both been advised to refrain from doing anything rash.

Charles J. Ross and Mabel Fenton are, it is said, about to separate. It is announced that they have signed for a long engagement over B. F. Keith's circuit of "continuous performance" theatres, after which Miss Fenton (Mrs. Ross will continue in farce-comedy next season, and will probably star. The Rosses have become quite wealthy, and have lately invested a portion of their earnings in a handsome residence on the west side.

Theatrical men are, as a rule, inclined to be careless in many matters, but there are three young members of the profession in this city who know the value of a dollar and are in a fair way to became rich. They are Charley Evans, of the Herald Square Theatre; Dan Collyer, of Harrigan's company, and Maurice M. McDermott, agent of "Mavourneen."
Dan has been putting his money into Harlem real estate, Evans is buying all the land he can in the city, and McDermott is slowly but surely getting control of the wharves on the upper west afte of the city. These men do not stand around hotel lobbles, telling the multi-

BASEBALL CHAT.

Those men who "pay the freight" in the maintenance of the National Exhibition Company, the incorporated name under which the New York Baseball Club is conducted, slept on the ragged edge of despair last night. To day they are saying a whole lot of un complimentary things about the team's play yesterday. And those same men are perfectly justified in all they said, too, for the New York players, with one or two exceptions, acted as if they had lead weights on their heels. They seemed to play as if they thought they didn't have the remotest chance in the world to win. It was as if they said to the Sootburg Clinkers: "Oh! we know you can 'do' us handliy, but for pity's sake make it as easy as possible and don't make us hustle too lively."

A most astonishing feature, too, was the "yen yen" playing of George Davis. He was never in the game, and his legion of admirers were amazed at his slovenly and drowny work. The character of the game that the New Torks played yesterday was such as to keep the patrons far, far away from One Hundred and Fifty-seventh street and Eighth avenue, and when the "treightpaying" magnates of the National Exhibition Company drop to that fact these'll be no joy in the camp of the players. play yesterday. And those same mer

Pitcher Clarke should not be con-demned. Had half a dozen of his fellow-players struck the gait he did, the "Clinkers" would not now be throwing bouquets at themselves for their victory of yesterday.

Of course, there will be the usua howl for a new player to take So-and So's place, and this-that-and-t'other fel low's position, but-and it's a big bu at that-one doesn't figure with players at that—one doesn't figure with players, good players, when one is anxious to engage him for his team. All the negotiations are between the officials of the clubs, and the players figure only in heavy thinking parts.

We hear talk of how fine it would be to sign Beckley or Tucker for first; Burkett or Belbach for the outfield; Breitenstein far pitcher, and Shriver or Clements for catcher, Of course, it would be gibrious, but would Pittsburg part with Beckley? Boston with Tucker? Cleveland
